A NEW MARKET

Carl Epperly Wants to Place "Horse Beef."

Represents an Oregon House—Urges Use of Commodity—To Sell in the Orient.

On one of the trans-Pacific liners to the Orient last month, passing through Honolulu, was a specimen of the Nor-west rustler who was thoroughly in desire—which means up-to-date. This was Carl Epperly, formerly secretary of Joseph Holliday, the wealthy brother of the late Ben Holliday, who, by the way, was grandfather of young Ben Holliday, son of Mrs. W. G. Irwin.

Epperly was selling "horse beef."
This article, first came into general use in civilized countries during the Paris commune in '71, when, as Zola describes it in his La Debacle, it was displayed in slabs or hunks as ill-colored meat in the shops of the French capital.

But since then its use has become more general and the process of curing it has greatly improved. Horses are grown now in the wilds of western Oregon and Washington, not for their speed or abilities as draught animals, but for their use as food.

At The Dalles, near Portland, there is a large canning establishment for the preserving of horse flesh, and it is doing a big business. Epperly is the outside man for this enterprise. He goes to Yokohama, Hongkong and Manila and other parts of the far east to introduce the commodity.

Stopping for the day in Honolulu he spied the nearest point of interest to the Mall dock, where the steamer was moored—the public market. And here he remarked:

"I can put a better article of meat than you see here for half the price.
Up in Oregon we are canning a beautiful quality of horse meat and also pickling it in a borax solution so that it keeps for any length of time in any climate."

"I can ship 400 pound tierces to Honolulu and put corned horse meat in the stalls of your market for about five cents a pound, and I intend to do it."

No horse meat has reached here yet.
It seems that Epperly has not included refrigerated horse meat in his repertoire, but it is doubtless on the list.
Whether it comes in a frozen state, in gaily labeled tins or solemn big barrels, just what the pake dealer at the market will say to its reception will be interesting. And the consumers to be numbered among the Hawaiians and Portuguese chiefly, as the voluble horse flesh drummer expatiated, will have a cheap, modern dish which is claimed to be both healthy and appetizing.

CIRCUIT COURT.

Conviction of a Japanese—Some Civil Cases.

Tasaka (Jap), charged with solliciting was tried yesterday before a foreign jury. Judge Stanley presiding.
The jury returned the verdict, guilty, one juror dissenting. The sentence will be pronounced at 1:30 today.

There being no session of court during the afternoon the jurors were excused till 9:30 this morning. Judge Perry's court was not in session.

A nolle prosequi was entered yesterday in the case of Thomas Quinn, heedless driving.

In the ejectment suit of Luika Ki-linahue vs. H. A. Widemann, a stipulation has been agreed to whereby the legal representatives of the defendant are allowed ten days within which to answer the complaint filed herein after the probate of the will of H. A. Wide-mann.

In the ejectment suit of Walkalani vs. J. O. Carter, et al., trustees under the will of Bernice P. Bishop, a judgment has been filed that the trustees recover of the plaintiff $18.50 costs of court and $15 for a commissioner to take testimony.

DISTRICT COURT.

Quite a Calendar Handled By the Judge.

Ah Hui, the Chinaman who was arrested on the premises of President Dole, and who was at first thought to have been attempting to set fire to the house, was fined $5 costs and tended to one month's imprisonment.

Two drunks paid the usual fine of $2 each.

Joe Costa, charged with assault and battery upon a small boy, received a six months' postponement of sentence.

A Japanese who had assaulted a Chinese was fined $5 and costs.

Three Chinese were arrested for having opium in possession. A nol. pros.
was entered for two, but the other, Cheong Pau, was fined $50 and costs.

He has appealed the case.

The case of Joe Kalana, the man who ran over an... caused the death of the soldier Herrington, was continued over until Feb. 21st. Deputy Marshal Hitchcock explained that this was necessary and attorney Kauiia, for the defendant, made no objection.

Progress hall will be the scene of a grand ball to be given by the U. S.
Hospital Corps on the eve of Washington's birthday.
